

2013 annual report

State of Alabama Department of Youth Services

Dear Governor Bentley,

The Department of Youth Services is pleased to present to you its Fiscal Year 2013 Annual Report which outlines many of the activities of the Department during the year. As you will see from this report, our students continue to be recognized for their positive efforts to grow as young men and women and our staff continue to be recognized for their extraordinary efforts to help develop our young clients into positive thinking, productive citizens of our state. Additionally, our agency continues to be recognized for our work sustaining the juvenile justice system reforms of the last several years.

From individual recognition of our students at state wide Literary Awards functions to contributing to the steel structures that now adorn the new Montgomery Bark Park, our students are continually given "opportunities to shine" and opportunities to be a positive part of our world.

From the initiative to start an afternoon reward opportunity by creating the new "snack shack" to helping students envision, till, plant and maintain a vegetable garden of which the most experienced gardener would be proud, our staff continue to create opportunities for our students to participate in positive activities and experience the rewards of good behavior and active participation in group activities.

We appreciate the support we receive from your administration, the legislature and the state's court system. We are especially grateful for our provider partners and the many citizens who volunteer their time and resources for the benefit of the young people in our care.

Thank you all!

Respectfully submitted,

J. Walter Wood, Jr.
Executive Director

Interstate Compact Division

The Interstate Compact for Students (ICJ) was originally established in 1955 as the nationwide mechanism for (a) the safe return of out-of-state runaways and (b) supervision of student probationers whose families need to move from one state to another. The administrative offices for ICJ in the State of Alabama are located at the Department of Youth Services in the Screening and Placement Division. In 2008, a new compact was enacted following its adoption by our 35th state. Under the new compact, which the Alabama legislature adopted in 2004, improvements have been made in communication, technology, accountability, compliance and dispute resolution.

The Interstate Data System for Students (JIDS) was launched in November 2012 and was fully implemented during 2013. This technology has enabled Alabama Probation Offices to have quick access to information generated by the nationwide database. Enhancements and upgrades made on the system through the year helped to stabilize and make the system more user friendly. The Alabama ICJ office continued to facilitate the training and expansion of the number of users in the state. Ms. Kaki Sanford performed a pivotal role in this regard.

The Alabama State Council continues to meet and contribute to the kind of communication and systemic improvements noticed throughout the country by their counterparts in the other 48 states (Georgia is still deliberating about joining the new compact).

The Alabama ICJ designee (Patrick Pendergast) was elected Chair of the Interstate Commission for Students at the 2013 Annual Business meeting. He assumed the one-year term in October 2013.

The workload for the Alabama ICJ office over the past year included the following:

17 runaways were returned home to Alabama

9 runaways were located in Alabama and returned to their home state

125 Probation /Aftercare cases were sent to Alabama (including 10 sex offenders)

35 Probation /Aftercare cases were sent out of state (including 2 sex offenders)

County probation officers throughout the state of Alabama provide the supervision and coordinated efforts adding to the success of the Interstate Commission for Students.

Licensing and Standards Division

During 2013, the Licensing and Standards Division of DYS licensed a total of sixty-eight (68) programs and conducted sixty-eight (68) six month reviews. Twenty-four (24) unannounced visits at DYS licensed residential programs that accept court-referred students were conducted.

The Licensing Division provided technical assistance to three start-up programs that were seeking licensing through the Department of Youth Services, as well as those programs currently licensed by DYS on their standards compliance. The Licensing Division is regularly involved with the Department of Human Resources and Alabama Student Probation Services, Student Court judges and the general public to answer questions related to DYS licensed program concerns.

School District Division

During 2013, the DYS School District celebrated the 16th anniversary of the partnership with the Alabama Writers' Forum, Writing Our Stories program. The award-winning Writing Our Stories project culminated after nine months with the publication of two very strong anthologies From Darkness to Light and Open the Door 15. In fall ceremonies, students from the McNeel and Wallace Schools presented their completed works to packed audiences.

In 2013, the school-district witnessed other noteworthy achievements. Two students were awarded an Alabama High School Diploma, thirty-eight students passed the GED, and thirteen students earned a National Career Readiness Certificate (NCRSC) through the ACT Work Keys. The DYS School District enhanced technology at two campuses by purchasing computers for GED classrooms at the L.B. Wallace and McNeel Schools. After teachers and administrators completed extensive training, both the Lurleen B. Wallace and McNeel Schools were awarded GED site licenses.

Additionally, the Career Technical Education (CTE) Program at Wallace School became an Accredited Training and Education Facility as recognized by National Center for the Construction Education and Research (NCCER). As a result of this designation, students may now receive nationally-recognized accredited certifications and credentials. The Wallace School CTE Business Management Program became a Microsoft IT Academy site and the Welding Program participated in the construction of the Wynton Blount Bark Park, Montgomery, Alabama.

On October 22, 2013, the DYS School District hosted the 3rd Annual Meeting of the Alabama Correctional Education Coalition. The coalition was founded by Dr. Peggy Shippen and Kyes Stevens from Auburn University. The DYS School District also hosted a highly successful college and career fair with over 20 college/career representatives in attendance at the Lurleen B. Wallace School.

Vacca Campus Building Champions for Life One Life at a Time

Two major initiatives marked an exciting year at the Vacca Campus in FY 2013. Emphasizing second chances and a commitment to change, Bill Glass Champions for Life and The Dannon Project sought to collaborate with DYS to promote a higher standard of behavior among justice involved youth.

Bill Glass Champions for Life

Started in 1969 as the Bill Glass Evangelistic Association, the ministry of Champions evolved from a City-Wide crusade ministry into the world's largest evangelistic prison ministry that now includes one of the most effective youth outreach ministries in the country. The overall purpose is to raise standards of behavior by changing lives, showing love, giving hope, and sharing the Good News of Freedom in Christ. All students attended an all-day event in April 2013 that included opportunities to hear personal testimonies from the Bill Glass volunteers along with a motorcycle display and basketball skill demonstration. All students were provided an opportunity to request a follow-up from the campus Chaplain.

The Dannon Project

Uniquely postured to understand the impact of crime on victims and communities, Jeh Jeh Pruitt and his wife Kerri Pruitt co-founded The Dannon Project in 1999. The organization was named after Dannon Pruitt, Jeh Jeh Pruitt's youngest brother who was killed by a person that had been recently released from prison on a non-violent offense. Focused on providing a strong support system for recently released inmates, the non-profit organization was established to help persons in transition, both male and female and specifically non-violent offenders reentering society.

Through an initiative led by DYS Deputy Director for Programs, Tim Davis, The Dannon Project partnered with DYS

to provide a Student Justice Training Program (JJTP) to train and prepare student offenders to become crime free and address the seriousness of their offenses while reinforcing positive learning styles through restorative justice training. Combining restorative justice training with education, career readiness, counseling and job training techniques gives Jefferson County youth at the Vacca Campus the opportunity to develop constructive life skills and character, positive attitudes, and attain valuable job and career readiness skills. The first class graduated the program May 2013. The Dannon Project's motto, "One Mission... One Life at a Time," represents the goals of the organization which focuses on youth taking responsibility for their choices, actions and consequences of actions; while learning better ways to behave, develop civic responsibility, peacefully resolve conflicts, and develop healthy relationships.

Mt. Meigs Campus Activities Enhance Positive Youth Development

The Mt. Meigs Campus made significant steps in changing its culture toward a more therapeutic milieu this year. This was accomplished through initiatives such as intramural recreation and sports programs, which focused on character building and social skills. These successful efforts were student built and operated incentive programs which proved to be highly effective.

Students had the opportunity to participate in an organized sports season which included flag football, basketball, softball, and volleyball. Through the use of recreational activities, a learning environment based on coaching, mentoring and play, provided Mt. Meigs students the opportunity to build character and social skills which are both common tenets in the rehabilitation of adolescent at-risk youth.

Students at Mt. Meigs were given the opportunity to learn basic art techniques, using a variety of mediums, through a grant funded initiative between DYS and the Montgomery Museum of Fine Arts. Students participated in a six weeks program which allowed them to work with acrylics, pastels, clay and tile in a variety of campus art projects. Participation in this project allowed the students to be exposed to visual arts thereby supporting a holistic approach to youth development.

Precedent Setting Partnership

The Mt. Meigs Campus continues to provide unique program elements rarely replicated in a student correctional facility. Partnering with the Boys and Girls Club (BGC) of South Central Alabama, the Mt. Meigs Campus is home to a Boys and Girls Club unit. The BGC Mt. Meigs Unit has served to provide "out of the box" collaboration between the Department of Youth Services and the BGC of South Central Alabama. Approximately five years ago, through the initiative of the DYS Treatment Coordinator, Alesia Allen, DYS and the BGC of South Central Alabama began development of an Independent Living Center (ILC) program within the existing club operations. Specifically developed to target the needs of long-term determinant sentence committed students, the ILC curriculum includes BGC curriculum and curriculum developed by the Mt. Meigs case management staff. Designed to be a three phase program with each phase lasting one year, the collaboration and partnership solidified for Phase One of the program.

All curriculum and modules are facilitated jointly by DYS case managers and Mr. Mark Salter, BGC staff. The collaboration continues to represent and strengthen a precedent setting relationship between a student justice agency and a recognized model community program. Operating within a secure setting, the ILC addresses the overall mission of DYS and supports the mission of the BGC which seeks to "enable all young people, especially those who need it most, to reach their full potential as productive, caring, responsible citizens.” The core beliefs of the organization are (1) provide a safe place to learn and grow, (2) provide ongoing relationships with caring adult professionals, (3) provide life-enhancing programs and character development experiences, and (4) provide hope and opportunity.

The collaboration between DYS and the BGC of South Central Alabama is expected to continue as full development of Phases II & III advances. Over 20 youth have successfully completed the BGC, Mt. Meigs Unit ILC program and perhaps will one day become notable BGC alumni.

Autauga Campus Strong Grass Roots Support

Autauga operates a modified (not confrontational) boot camp program in a facility with spacious grounds, located in a rural section of Autauga County. The basic program continues to operate as it has since its inception in 1994 and outcomes have been successful. Opportunities to refine and improve the success and effectiveness of the program have continued.

A recent program refinement has been the introduction of a reward system with the slogan, “Do good things; and good things happen.” The crux of the program is rewarding students who do the prescribed physical training with a piece of candy. The candy is provided by the campus administrator.

The Autauga staff, administration, advisory board members and members of the community work together to provide activities for the young men. Some of the most popular activities are fatherhood classes, May Day, Iron Bowl party, Christmas luncheon, Christmas presents, and Super Bowl party.

All religious programming is done on a voluntary basis. The volunteers of Autauga County Baptist Association have provided numerous copies of the New International translation of the Bible; Victory Baptist members have provided the King James translation; and Gideons International has provided each young man with a New Testament prior to exiting the program. The commitment to the program is evidenced by forty to fifty volunteers, many with multiple visits, providing services each month.

While not a new feature, a program component which has permeated and molded the attitudes of Autauga’s students, staff and advisory board members has been the opportunity to participate in voluntary quality assurance interviews. The interviews are conducted semi-annually with staff and students. From this experience, students have face-to-face contact with concerned and caring members of the advisory board. From the staff’s perspective, it is realized that their work is appreciated and their efforts to model positive values is recognized. As a result of the advisory board members contact with the young men, they have gained a deeper commitment to their role on the advisory board.

ABSOP (Accountability-Based Sex Offender Program)

At the end of fiscal year 2013, DYS had provided comprehensive assessment and treatment services to 883 students in the ABSOP program and assessment services for an additional 441 students in the general adolescent population (GAP). Also, in two recent outcome data analyses, it was consistently determined that only 4% of students who complete the ABSOP program are re-arrested for new sexual crimes. Moreover, it should be noted that unlike outpatient programs in which treatment completion rates are often around 60%; 99.9% of students who have been placed into ABSOP have completed the program. There are many drawbacks to treating adolescents in an institutional setting, such as isolation from the community, disconnection from family, and the disruption of educational and social opportunities. In addition, there is considerable evidence that segregation with disturbed adolescents tends to create a contagion of deviance. Thus, it is important to keep in mind the significance of the extremely high treatment completion rate and the low re-arrest rates for new sex offenses. Moreover, because there are few outpatient options for treatment in Alabama, it is important to make note of those advantages that do seem to adhere to an inpatient setting. It is a significant accomplishment that a student can complete treatment in DYS and receive considerable benefit from his placement in ABSOP.

Children and Residential Experiences (CARE) and Therapeutic Intervention (TCI)

DYS continues the implementation of the CARE and TCI residential programming. Perhaps the most significant event of this past year is the down-sizing of ABSOP. DYS has become more efficient in providing therapy to students in ABSOP and more able to recognize when a student has reached optimum benefit from treatment. ABSOP has been able to steadily decrease the average length of stay for students in the program. Now, by far the majority of students complete the program within one year.

Downsizing ABSOP enabled staff in ABSOP, experienced in CARE, to be able to begin providing direct services to the general adolescent population (GAP). Fred Grant, Phyfer B Unit Manager, and his experienced staff have been utilized as CARE trainers in training new unit managers, as well as dorm staff, on how to run a CARE based dorm.

In terms of CARE programming, significant progress was made in training and now all staff members have had a first round of CARE/TCI training. As the training is increased and repeated, staff will become more proficient with the more complex requirements of CARE based interactions. As a result of this

featured programs

State of Alabama Department of Youth Services

training, DYS should continue to see the gains in terms of less reliance on punitive consequences as a mechanism of control.

Staff members who are invested in working productively with these students, see CARE programming and principles as an enormously helpful model in creating and structuring positive engagement with the students DYS serves.

Positive Enrichment

Other significant accomplishments in ABSOP programming were in the area of enriching the opportunity for the students to have normalizing and enriching experiences on campus. ABSOP, in cooperation with GAP staff developed a teen club, housed in Holloway Hall. Called the Snack Shack, students on Mt. Meigs Campus can play games, socialize, and connect with each other and with dorm staff in a pleasant social context. Purchases can be made from the Snack Shack inventory using the DYS dollars that are now part of the contingency management program. The Snack Shack has become a very significant institution and the students' engagement in socializing activities has been remarkable. The Snack Shack is an example of enriching the lives of our students with activities that approximate those occurring in an ordinary adolescent's life while providing a venue in which they can practice social skills that can be necessary once they leave the Mt. Meigs Campus. Many thanks go to Tonya Milam and Jason Wood for their leadership in making this a reality.

In addition, ABSOP has developed three other programs all of which are organized with enrichment principles in mind. Also located in Holloway Hall is a new group room that contains computers, a piano, and a clothes closet where students can shop for clothes needed to go home or to court. In addition, a washer and dryer were installed so that staff can take clothes that have been donated and properly launder them for the students and teach the students to properly perform these tasks.

Other new activities include a monthly pizza night for every dorm on campus. The purpose of this activity is to provide a context in which the dorms can share pizza, socialize, have a conversation, and essentially act like a family. In addition, DYS have now installed PlayStation 2's in every dorm on campus so that students have the opportunity to use the games in the evenings when they are not doing homework or are otherwise engaged in activities. One of the core principles of the CARE model is to create a milieu where student's have the experience of a nurturing and engaging surrogate family. In all of these activities and programs, the DYS goal is the creation of a context where staff can relate to the students in positive and productive encounters; not as jailers, but as teachers and parents.

Recently, ABSOP has also developed an exercise program. Mason Benson, a ABSOP staff member, has developed a fitness program utilizing surplus exercise equipment obtained from Auburn University. Though not fully implemented, ABSOP envisions that, as every student enters into the Mt. Meigs Campus, in addition to completing a comprehensive psychological evaluation, he will complete a comprehensive physical fitness evaluation. The results will be made available to him and a prescriptive physical fitness program will be provided so that students can learn how to have a healthy body. Many students that enter the program are sedentary and/or obese and the experience in the ABSOP prototype of this program is that students who are engaged in the physical program lose weight, become considerably more active and physically healthy, and have a much more positive self-image. A sound mind and a sound body is a noble goal.

The last project that is focused on is the garden project. This project really was envisioned because one of the students on Mt. Meigs Campus had a 20 X 20 foot garden next to the Wallace School. After watching him work in this project Dr. Barry Burkhardt envisioned that the opportunity to work in a garden, to grow living things, and to see the tangible result as plants grew from a seedling to a vegetable or fruit would be helpful to the students, many of whom have never had an opportunity for such an experience. During 2013, ABSOP had a spring and winter garden. Upwards of fifty students volunteered to work in the garden. In particular, a couple of very difficult to reach students participated fully and realized immense behavioral benefits. In the future, ABSOP envisions providing training in agriculture, ornamental horticulture, food preparation, and perhaps even a culinary arts center to provide training and abilities for future jobs and careers. Jim Kent, Administrator of Institutional Services, was instrumental in providing the administrative support to create this project.

Writing our Stories

Encouraging Mt. Meigs students with accolades for their writing, former Crimson Tide and Pittsburgh Steelers cornerback Anthony Madison, addressed the newly published writers from the Writing Our Stories (WOS) program at the Lurleen B. Wallace School on the Mt. Meigs Campus. Mr. Madison verbalized to the writers and their guests that he had read their book and was impressed by their intelligence. The event marked the release of Open the Door 15, an anthology of poems and stories from the student writers, under the tutelage of the WOS Mt. Meigs Campus team teaching writer Marlin Barton, Lurleen B. Wallace School librarian Maureen Womack, and Lisa Williams, cooperating teacher. The writers, and their families, guests, Lurleen B. Wallace faculty, and DYS staff filled the chapel to capacity, while the student writers captivated their audience by reading their poems and stories.

On November 1, 2012 on the DYS Vacca Campus, Jeh Jeh Pruitt, Birmingham Fox 6 broadcast journalist and co-founder of the Dannon Project, gave the keynote address to the WOS Vacca students in the chapel. Mr. Pruitt inspired the audience of student writers, their families, McNeel School faculty, DYS staff, and other guests with his encouraging remarks. Holding his copy of From Darkness to Light, Mr. Pruitt said, "When I read this book, I felt every word."

Vacca student writers entertained their guests as they read their writings at the event. The WOS Vacca Campus team teaching writer Tony Crunk, and Harold Abram Jr., cooperating teacher, are to be commended on the release of the anthology From Darkness to Light.

On November 8, 2012, a group of DYS and Alabama Writers' Forum (AWF) administrators and staff, invited guests and family members gathered in the DYS Washington Hall Board room at Mt. Meigs Campus to celebrate the endeavors of the Writing Our Stories (WOS) Chalkville Campus team on the release of After the Storm, a compendium anthology of the work of WOS writers from the fourteen years that Alabama Writers' Forum had worked with Chalkville students. The WOS Chalkville team was comprised of teaching writer Priscilla Hancock Cooper, cooperating teacher Janet Dixon, and media specialist Mary Rencher. Ms. Cooper continued to work with a portion of the Chalkville students during their relocation to the Working On Womanhood (WOW) program in Tuscaloosa after the tornado that devastated the Chalkville Campus on January 23, 2012.

Departmental Vision and Goals

Vision

DYS believes that communities will be safer and youth will be more likely to succeed if services designed to meet the needs and strengths of youth and their families are provided locally, in non institutional settings.

Goals

To provide continued financial support to local community diversion programs to effectively prevent youth from remaining in or returning to the student justice system.

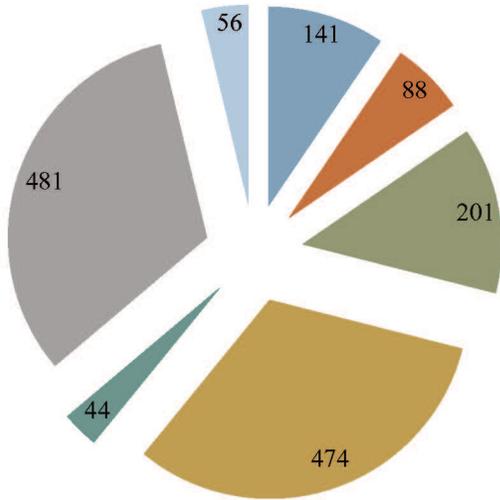

To provide therapeutic strengths based services for 100% of serious offenders.

DYS will strengthen its capacity to conduct quality assurance analysis on the programs it funds.

To provide a comprehensive educational program that meets the individual needs of DYS students.
